

17th Annual Conference

The International Association for the Study of Environment, Space, and Place

Loyola University Chicago: April 22-23, 2022

Mapping Bodies

All sessions held in the Information Commons Building, 4th floor common space, Loyola University's Lake Shore Campus

Friday, 22 April 2022

8:45-9:00 – Welcoming remarks by Alex Zukas, President of IASESP

9:00-10:30

Panel 1

Chair: Mary Paddock, Quinnipiac University

“The heterotopia of the mirror in a photograph”
Silke Helmerdig, Pforzheim University

“Feminist Cartographies of the Spatialized Body”
Elizabeth Cronin, University of Florida (virtual presentation)

“The Fat Body and Colonial Symbolism: Imperialism, Appetite, and Hunger in Joseph Conrad’s Heart of Darkness”
Tatiana Konrad, University of Vienna (virtual presentation)

10:30-10:45 – Break

10:45-12:15

Panel 2

Chair: Troy Paddock, Southern Connecticut State University

“An Earthquake, a Dam, and a National Park: The Moral Status of Hetch Hetchy Reservoir”
Jason Hayob-Matzke and Jodie Hayob-Matzke, University of Mary Washington

“That in the Human Being Which Longs for Wilderness”
Jeffrey B. Webb, Huntington University

“Where is Nature’s Body?”
Kip Redick, Christopher Newport University

12:15-1:45 – Lunch

1:45-3:15

Panel 3

Chair: Kip Redick, Christopher Newport University

“How Prehistoric Swamps Affect Contemporary Forests: Understanding the Interaction of Coal Seams and Reforestation Efforts in the Midwest”
Caleb H. Redick, Purdue University

“Are there Geographical Bodies? Words and Moments in the History of Reasoning”
Peter Nekola, Imago Mundi

“Cartographic Bodies: Anthropomorphic and Zoomorphic Maps, 1856-1914”
Alex Zukas, National University (retired)

3:15-3:30 – Break

3:30-5:00

Panel 4

Chair: Lorna L. Zukas, National University

“Mapping the Human Body and the Anthropocene”
Dennis Skocz, Independent Scholar

“Freedom in Organism: Schelling and Hegel on Nature's Freedom”
Michael Brown, University of Notre Dame

“The Ecological Gaze: Mapping Bodies and Environments in Jean-Paul Sartre”
Joe Balay, Christopher Newport University

6:00 – Group Dinner at Uncommon Ground (1401 W Devon Avenue, Chicago)

Saturday, 23 April 2022

9:30-10:30

Panel 5

Chair: Alex Zukas, National University (retired)

“Self-constructed homes in Urban India as embodiment of residential agency”
Divya Chand, Lokal Habitat Labs (virtual presentation)

“A Future without Conquistadors: Geographic Acts for the End of Discovery”
Heidi Andrea Restrepo Rhodes, Tufts University (virtual presentation)

10:30-10:45 – Break

10:45-12:15

Panel 6

Chair: Jodie Hayob-Matzke, University of Mary Washington

“Body Politic: Mapping Citizen Activism in the Struggle for California’s Neighborhoods”
Lorna L. Zukas, National University

“Lessons from the Past: Illness, Aging, and Community in Renaissance Dubrovnik”
Filippo Naitana, Quinnipiac University

“Blurring and drawing bodily lines: Metagenomic cartographies”
Simon Vanderstraeten and Adam Searle, Université de Liège (hybrid presentation)

12:15-1:30 – Lunch

1:30-2:30

Panel 7

Chair: Jeffrey B. Webb, Huntington University

“‘Strange Bodies’: The Genius Criterion in Mapping a Literary Corpus”
Mary Paddock, Quinnipiac University

“The Spell of the Sensuous within Pilgrimage: How Pilgrim Culture Fosters Pilgrims’
Relational Ontology with the Earth”
Meg Muthupandiyan, University of Wisconsin-Superior

2:30-2:45 – Break

2:45-4:15

Panel 8

Chair: Jason Hayob-Matzke, University of Mary Washington

“Dressed Body and the Queering of Urban Space”

Ke Sun, University of Florida

“The Body Betwixt, or Building the Porch without a House”

Charlie Hailey, University of Florida

“Mapping the Body Politic: The Limits of a Metaphor”

Troy Paddock, Southern Connecticut State University

4:15 – Closing Remarks by Troy Paddock, co-editor of *Environment, Space, Place

4:30-5:30 – Business Meeting

International Association
for the Study of Environment,
Space and Place